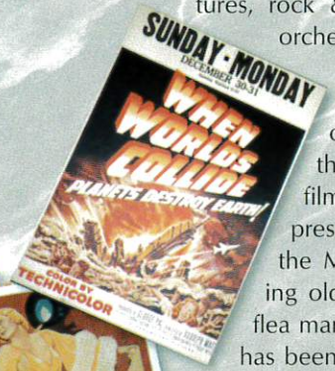
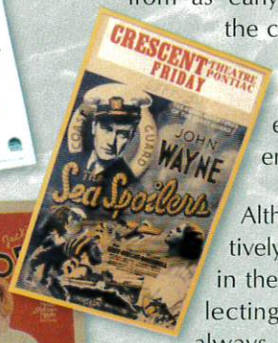
Mike Piepel

Has been a connoisseur of classic films and film posters for over 25 years. His love of movies started at the old Iowa theater in Jefferson, Iowa, watching Saturday afternoon matinees. Upon graduation from high school and the state university of Minnesota, Mike started on a career of working in the arts as a coordinator of University Cultural Entertainment. His positions at three universities included working with film programming, theater productions, gallery presentations, classic & modern dance, distinguished lectures, rock & roll, and symphony orchestras.





His love of collecting old movie posters and the histories behind the films has allowed him to present programs all over the Midwest. From searching old theaters to attending flea markets and local sales he has been able to locate posters from as early as 1910 to the classic 1930's, of which is his favorite era of the cinema.

Although a relatively new hobby in the world of collecting, Mike has always considered the art of the film poster and the stories behind them to be an intricate part of the American cultural background.
